My Starting Point

By Laura Jane Hyte-Garner, MSN, APRN, PMHNP-BC

A Whole-Person Check-In

Before we decide where we're going, it helps to understand where you are right now.

There are no right or wrong answers. This isn't a test, and you don't need to be doing well in every area.

Think about the past 1–2 weeks and circle the number that fits best.

How Am I Doing Right Now?

Think about the past 1–2 weeks. 0 = Really struggling; 5 = Somewhere in the middle; 10 = Doing very well.

Area of my life	Circle a rating
Mood	0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10
Stress / Anxiety	0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10
Sleep	0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10
Energy	0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10
Focus	0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10
Motivation	0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10
Physical Well-Being	0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10
Connection	0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10
Enjoyment	0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10
Daily Functioning	0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10
Overall Mental Wellness	0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

Look at Your Numbers

You don't need all 9s and 10s.

We're looking for patterns, not a perfect score.

Which two areas would make the biggest difference in your life if they improved?

1. _____

2. _____

What Is Getting in the Way?

What feels like your biggest challenge right now?

What Is Already Working?

Mental-health care shouldn't only focus on what's going wrong.

What is something you're doing—or something in your life—that is helping you right now?

What Would "Better" Actually Look Like?

Instead of simply saying "I want to feel better," imagine that treatment is helping.

What would you notice yourself doing differently?

Maybe you would:

get out of bed more easily

finish assignments

worry less

sleep through the night

spend more time with people

have fewer cravings

return to a hobby

feel more patient with your family

concentrate at work

leave the house more often feel interested in life again

If one thing improved over the next month, what would matter most to you?

One More Important Question

What is something about yourself or your life that is going well—and that you DON'T want treatment to change?

Your strengths, personality, creativity, relationships, values, and the things that make you you matter too.

Keep This Page

We'll come back to it.

Treatment isn't only about whether a symptom score changed or a medication dose increased.

We also want to know:

Are you sleeping better?

Are you functioning better?

Are you reconnecting with people and activities?

Are the things that matter to you becoming easier?

Does your life feel more like your life again?

That's how we'll know whether we're moving in the right direction.

Ischys Integrative Mental Wellness

Notice Understand Experiment Track Discuss → → → →